TRAGEDY ALLEGED ABDUCTOR BY FILM

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Los Angeles, Cal., March 27.—A motion picture of a stiff thumb on the hand of her alleged abductor, flashed before the eyes of her parents in Herkimer, N. Y., led police detectives to a lonely cabin in the Hollywood Hills today where pretty Helen Burns Whitehead, 14 years old, who was kidnapped from her New York home three and a half years ago, was found with Oscar R. Whitehead, her half brother. The girl was taken to Juvenile Hall and Whitehead was arrested on a charge of kidnapping.

Helen Whitehead, the 11-year-old daughter of Justice of the Peace William H. Whitehead, disappeared from her home at Herkimer, N. Y., on Thanksgiving Day, 1912. In boys clothing she was traced to Syracuse, N. Y. On the same day Oscar Whitehead, then 41 years old, and her half-brother, also disappeared. Whitehead, an office man, dramatist and student of theosophy, had drawn $600 of his account in the Henry Clews Banking house, New York. Detectives in all the large cities were engaged to seek the girl, but they failed to discover a clue.

At Juvenile Hall, the girl weepingly cried for her "Daddy" as she called Whitehead. She said her name was Susie Perline and not Helen Whitehead and that the man under arrest was H. O. Perline, her father.

Whitehead, or Perline, denied that he had ever been in Herkimer, N. Y. He said that his home was in Vassalboro, Me., and that he had left there three and a half years ago.

RUSSIANS RALLY TO MEET GERMAN

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Petrograd, March 27.—A council of war has just been held on the western front to make final preparations to meet the expected German drive. Among those attending were A. J. Guchkoff, the minister of war; General Alexieff, the chief of staff and acting commander-in-chief, and General Radko Dimitrieff.

Military critics express confidence in the ability of the Russian army to meet the German blow despite the changes in the military regime brought about by the provisional government.

Imprisoned in the new palace at Tsarskoe-Selo, Nicholas Romanoff, the ex-Czar, knows little of what is going on in the great outside world. Nor has he much knowledge of the fact that new Russia is now gathering her forces to meet the shock of the mighty German "steam roller" which once before Von Hindenburg flung against the Russian lines with tidal wave force.

The former Czar is suffering from a broken heart. That is the verdict of all who have been allowed to see him and converse with him. The shock of the sudden fall of his throne was too much for the ex-ruler. He is pale, moody and nervous and given to fits of weeping.

The suggestion has been made that the ex-Czar and his family be confined in one of the old monasteries, built like fortresses, in northern Russia. The government has not yet taken up the suggestion.

START FIRST WITH CHILD SAYS FREUND

Editor of Musical America, Offers Information for Establishing Sound Foundation for Musical Growth Now Manifested in America.

One of the strongest points that has been made in the various addresses of John C. Freund, the famous editor of Musical America, who will speak before various bodies in this city on Wednesday and Thursday, is that we should bring the American ideal into music. There should be the ideal of democracy triumphant, there should be no prejudice on account of race, religion or nationality, and we should, therefore, not ask of a musician or composer.

"Where did you study? Of what nationality are you?" Of what instead we should ask: "What do you know?" "Can you sing?" "Can you play?"—and let it go at that.

Among the other results of the musical propaganda in which Mr. Freund has interested himself at his own expense has been a strong movement for the democratization of music—that is, taking it out of the hands of the few, as we took the government out of the hands of the few, and giving it into the hands of the many.

So, there are popular concerts, of good music, at cheap prices. In addition, there has been the institution of community choruses all over the country; the giving of credits for music in high schools and universities; the taking up of the American composer by the publishers and by the artists and conductors; the institution of more orchestras and bands.

In fact, a positive wave of interest in music has swept the country, in all of which Mr. Freund modestly claims to be but one of a long line of men and women, dead and living, who have worked, suffered, struggled to make music an integral part of the life of the great democracy.

Among the serious and important results of the movement has been the nation-wide effort to purge the musical profession of the frauds and fakes who dishonor it. In many states bills have been introduced in the legislatures for the standardization of music study and the registration of music teachers, especially teachers of vocal music.

In the addresses which Mr. Freund will make, he will propose a comprehensive plan for the furtherance of the musical cause, which plan is the result of his lifelong work and of the experience he has made, as to actual musical conditions, in the cities he has visited. By this plan he hopes to unite the whole country in a systematic, united effort to replace the various spasmodic and sometimes irresponsible efforts being made by well-meaning but often misguided persons. This plan Mr. Freund bases absolutely on the introduction of music into the public and high schools.

"You must start with the child," he says, "before you can have a community that can appreciate a symphony orchestra."

On Wednesday evening, he will be the guest of the Rotary Club, and all musicians of the city have been invited to be present then. On Thursday morning he will speak before the high school students; at noon he will be the guest of the Chamber of Commerce; in the afternoon he will address the Federation of Women's Clubs; in the evening he will speak at the high school auditorium. All his addresses are free.

TROUBLE OVER A GARBAGE PAIL

Also Playing the Organ Annoyed Mr. Klim of St. Mary's Street—Tribulations of a Cripple and His Neighbors—Trouble Over a Watch.

Paul Klim of No. 26 St. Mary's street, is crippled, and as a result little things annoy him. His last annoyance was where he should keep his garbage pail and it led to his appearance in recorder's court this morning to complain to Recorder Lang about Mrs. Jennie Comback, who resides in the same house. Both sides told their story, and at the close Mrs. Comback was discharged.

It developed that Mr. Klim is crippled as the result of paralysis having sustained three strokes which has also partly paralyzed the organs of speech. The Combacks, who live upstairs over his family, have an organ and also a daughter who is taking lessons. The daughters play the organ nights between 8 and 9 o'clock. This annoys Mr. Klim. His family, according to one of them, do not agree the sound of the organ, but in fact rather enjoy it.

The other day Mr. Klim had his garbage pail placed in the backyard alongside the Comback woodshed. This did not meet the approval of Mrs. Comback who had her daughter transfer the pail to Mr. Klim's woodshed. Mr. Klim removed the pail back to the Comback woodshed.

Finally after the pail had traveled to and fro several times Mrs. Comback went out and took the pail back. Mr. Klim claimed that when she was removing the pail she shoved him and he fell to the ground. In his crippled condition it was impossible to get up, and a neighbor assisted him.

Mrs. Comback claimed she did not lay a finger on Mr. Klim but that owing to his being crippled he was unsteady on his feet and lost his balance and fell. She also said that Mr. Klim was in the habit of calling her a foul name, but she had never interfered with him in any way, but she did object to his placing his garbage pail on her side of the yard when he had room in his own yard for it.

Some Trouble Over a Watch.

After the disposition of the Klim-Comback case a watch case was brought to the attention of Recorder Lang. It developed that a father had a watch which his son had borrowed and also $2 to have it repaired. The watch was taken to a jeweler's and the son mislaid the $2. The father was anxious to have his watch back. The son was interviewed by the recorder and told where he had taken the watch to be repaired. The recorder gave the father the address and informed him to notify the jeweler that it was his watch and when repairs were completed to deliver it to him and not to the son.

GERMAN POLICY TO BE OSTRICHLIKE?

If Congress Announces a State of War Berlin Will Ignore Action Is Report—Preparations Continue at Cabinet Meeting—Wilson Busy With Message.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, March 27.—Germany's policy of evasion will be met with one of straightforwardness by the United States.

High officials today made this plain in discussing the remarkable plans outlined to William Bayard Hale by Berlin officialdom, in which it is declared that "even though congress shall announce that a state of war exists, Germany will take the position that she is not aware of that fact." Such a suggestion, it is declared here, simply is a continuation of the German policy of covert insults and manipulation of every possible agency to embarrass the United States.

Congressional leaders who will frame the policy of the United States when President Wilson has laid the entire situation before them were a unit today in declaring that Germany will be left in no doubt as to the position of the United States. The foreign affairs committees of both houses have already tentatively agreed that the resolutions to be reported by them following the address of the president, will set forth in plain and unmistakable language that the United States has striven at all times to maintain peace even at great sacrifices but that Germany has violated the honor and the interests of the United States in such a manner that no nation could further submit.

The additional declaration made to Dr. Hale that Germany "will not consider any change in her submarine policy but that Germany will not declare war," likewise meets with no responsive echo here. Coming as it does on top of the official German announcement that her submarines sank the City of Memphis and the Illinois, and with the report of Captain Christopher of the American tanker Haddon, sunk in the "safety zone" off the Holland coast, absolutely without warning, this statement fell on deaf ears, so far as officialdom was concerned. No declaration of war now is necessary, officials say. International law takes cognizance of acts before words can be considered and the acts of Germany following withdrawal of her solemn pledges that she would conduct cruiser warfare, with her submarines have constituted the carrying on of open hostilities in the opinion of nearly all officialdom.

Today's cabinet meeting was expected further to consider the plans for coordination and unity of action between all government departments. Already the various secretaries have made giant strides in effecting an agreement whereby red tape shall be cut to the minimum and the departments work in unison so that all false motion shall be eliminated. It will be absolutely necessary in order to meet the developments of the present crisis.

In addition the general plan of finance was expected to be discussed. The question of financial support to Germany's enemies is still under discussion and wide differences of opinion have developed in congress. What action the president will decide to take on this subject is, of course, known only to himself. He has asked for the advice of the cabinet and will have that for guidance. In addition he expects to confer during the present week with members of congress and financiers generally so that he will be able to definitely discuss the subject in his message to congress.

Symphony Orchestra and Artist.

The coming Symphony Orchestra concert, with Hans Kronold, "cellist, as soloist, promises to be one of the best ever given by this organization. All through the fall and winter the orchestra has been working painstakingly on the great "Jupiter" Symphony by Mozart, which will be given at the concert on Saturday evening of this week at the high school auditorium. Great and masterly as is this symphony, it is also exceedingly musical and appealing to music lovers and musicians alike. Several shorter numbers will be played by the orchestra, while Mr. Kronold will play two groups of "cello solos as follows: Burch's beautiful "Kol Nidrei," demanding just such bigness and breadth of tone as is produced by this artist; "Scherzo," by Dittersdorf; the delightful "Rondo" from Boccherini's Sonata for cello, demanding the greatest technique from the player. The second group will be the following compositions: "Evening Lights," by Ribikov; "Oriente," by Caesar Qui; "Romanza," by Gliere; and "Russian Dance," by Simon. Patrons and subscribers should make out their checks to Mrs. C. N. Reed, who is acting as temporary secretary and treasurer for the orchestra. The diagram for the exchange of tickets will be open for patrons at Winter's music store on John street on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, for subscribers at the same place on Thursday morning at the same hour; and for the general public on Friday morning at the same hour and place. Tickets for school children will be distributed to the schools this week, and as the public rehearsal comes on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and no rushing from school will be necessary, it is hoped that there will be a large attendance of pupils and teachers on Saturday afternoon.

TAKE AGRICULTURE OUT OF POLITICS

That is Change Proposed in Legislature Which Will Hear Farmers and Grangers Upon Suggested Changes.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, March 27.—Men prominent in agricultural circles from many sections of the state are seeking to bring about a change in the Agricultural Law whereby the state department of agriculture will be taken out of politics. The necessity of retaining a scientific and experienced commissioner of agriculture beyond the term of the executive who appointed him, is being urged by those who have agricultural matters at heart and who are identified with many of the institutions where scientific courses in agriculture are given.

According to the belief of those who are behind the project under discussion, too much politics attends appointments made in the department of agriculture. This does not mean that all the appointments there are political, but that there are many positions which are given and taken as patronage. At least this claim is made.

The first step to take the state department of agriculture out of politics made this year, occurred a week or so ago when a delegation of prominent farmers and representatives of the grange and horticultural societies waited upon him and asked that he endorse a proposition to have a commission created the jurisdiction of which over agricultural matters to be supreme.

As has been explained previously, the commission proposed would be made up of representatives from each of the judicial districts of the state, the plan outlined being to give each commissioner a term of office extending for nine years. One commissioner would serve from each judicial district.

A prominent advocate for a change in the agricultural law, so as to make it possible for the commissioner of agriculture to serve without check and in much the same manner as the state commissioner of education, states that not until there is established a definite policy as regards the regulation of the state department of agriculture can there be any material advancement in the department of agriculture. He points out that the retention of experts who will not be disturbed by changes in administration, is the only sure method of raising the standard of the department in question.

The plan advanced by those who are behind the proposed innovation is that the state department of agriculture be divided into bureaus, each bureau to be in charge of an expert and broad enough in scope to include every branch which might be reasonably expected to be classified under it. The appointments of such experts as might be selected as bureau chiefs to be made with the assurance that the term of office is to be permanent, or at least for a reasonably long period.

Last year a bill embodying these features was introduced but failed of passage. Every effort is being made to pave the way for the passage of a similar measure this year. Governor Whitman has expressed his willingness to approve it if it passes both houses of the legislature, and reaches him before adjournment.

The necessity of placing the state department of agriculture upon a footing never before attempted, is declared to be imperative under the conditions which prevail, so that the high cost of living be reduced and more authority be granted to those who have in charge the work of encouraging sheep raising, farming and the dairy industry.

In addition, there has been the institution of community choruses all over the country; the giving of credits for music in high schools and universities; the taking up of the American composer by the publishers and the institution of more orchestras and bands.

In fact, a positive wave of interest in music has swept the country, in all of which Mr. Freund modestly claims to be but one of a long line of men and women, dead and living, who have worked, suffered, struggled to make music an integral part of the life of the great democracy.

Among the serious and important results of the movement has been the nation-wide effort to purge the musical profession of the frauds and fakes who dishonor it. In many states bills have been introduced in the legislatures for the standardization of music study and the registration of music teachers, especially teachers of vocal music.

In the addresses which Mr. Freund will make, he will propose a comprehensive plan for the furtherance of the musical cause, which plan is the result of his lifelong work and of the experience he has made, as to actual musical conditions, in the cities he has visited. By this plan he hopes to unite the whole country in a systematic, united effort to replace the various spasmodic and sometimes irresponsible efforts being made by well-meaning but often misguided persons. This plan Mr. Freund bases absolutely on the introduction of music into the public and high schools.

"You must start with the child," he says, "before you can have a community that can appreciate a symphony orchestra."

On Wednesday evening, he will be the guest of the Rotary Club, and all musicians of the city have been invited to be present. On Thursday morning he will speak before the high school students, at noon he will be the guest of the Chamber of Commerce, in the afternoon he will address the Federation of Women's Clubs. In the evening he will speak at the high school auditorium. All his addresses are free.

Frank Van Steenburgh was arrested Monday evening by Leo Gallo, proprietor of "The Tub of Blood" as a saloon on East Union street is called, on a charge of creating a disturbance in the saloon, and was turned over to Policeman Connolly. Van Steenburgh's father furnished bond in the sum of $200 for the appearance of his son before Recorder Lang this morning in Recorder's court.

When Van Steenburgh was arrested Gallo failed to make an appearance to press the charge. The case was held open until Wednesday morning at nine o'clock and Recorder Lang issued a subpoena for the appearance of Gallo in court Wednesday.

Van Steenburgh claims that in the fracas Gallo failed to take place will be brought out at the trial on the adjourned day.

TROUBLE OVER A GARBAGE PAIL

Also Playing the Organ Annoyed Mr. Klim of St. Mary's Street—Tribulations of a Cripple and His Neighbors—Trouble Over a Watch.

Paul Klim of No. 26 St. Mary's street, is crippled, and as a result little things annoy him. His last annoyance was where he should keep his garbage pail and it led to his appearance in recorder's court this morning to complain to Recorder Lang about Mrs. Jennie Comback, who resides in the same house. Both sides told their story, and at the close Mrs. Comback was discharged.

It developed that Mr. Klim is crippled as the result of paralysis having sustained three strokes which have also partly paralyzed the organs of speech. The Combacks, who live upstairs over his family, have an organ and also a daughter who is taking lessons. The daughters play the organ nights between 8 and 9 o'clock. This annoys Mr. Klim. His family, according to one of them, do not dislike the sound of the organ, but in fact rather enjoy it.

The other day Mr. Klim had his garbage pail placed in the backyard alongside the Comback woodshed. This did not meet the approval of Mrs. Comback who had her daughter transfer the pail to Mr. Klim's woodshed. Mr. Klim removed the pail back to the Comback woodshed.

Finally after the pail had traveled to and fro several times Mrs. Comback went out and took the pail back. Mr. Klim claimed that when she was removing the pail she shoved him and he fell to the ground. In his crippled condition it was impossible to get up, and a neighbor assisted him.

Mrs. Comback claimed she did not lay a finger on Mr. Klim but that owing to his being crippled he was unsteady on his feet and lost his balance and fell. She also said that Mr. Klim was in the habit of calling her a foul name, but she had never interfered with him in any way, but she did object to his placing his garbage pail on her side of the yard when he had room in his own yard for it.

Some Trouble Over a Watch.

After the disposition of the Klim-Comback case a watch case was brought to the attention of Recorder Lang. It developed that a father had a watch which his son had borrowed and also $2 to have it repaired. The watch was taken to a jeweler's and the son mislaid the $2. The father was anxious to have his watch back. The son was interviewed by the recorder and told where he had taken the watch to be repaired. The recorder gave the father the address and informed him to notify the jeweler that it was his watch and when repairs were completed to deliver it to him and not to the son.

GERMAN POLICY TO BE OSTRICHLIKE?

If Congress Announces a State of War Berlin Will Ignore Action is Reported—Preparations Continue at Cabinet Meeting—Wilson Busy With Message.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, March 27.—Germany's policy of evasion will be met with one of straightforwardness by the United States.

High officials today made this plain in discussing the remarkable plans outlined to William Rayward Hale by Berlin officialdom, in which it is declared that "even though congress shall announce that a state of war exists, Germany will take the position that she is not aware of that fact." Such a suggestion, it is declared here, simply is a continuation of the German policy of covert insults and manipulation of every possible agency to embarrass the United States.

Congressional leaders who will frame the policy of the United States when President Wilson has laid the entire situation before them were a unit today in declaring that Germany will be left in no doubt as to the position of the United States. The foreign affairs committees of both houses have already tentatively agreed that the resolutions to be reported by them following the address of the president, will set forth in plain and unmistakable language that the United States has striven at all times to maintain peace even at great sacrifices but that Germany has violated the honor and the interests of the United States in such a manner that no nation could further submit to her.

The additional declaration made to Dr. Hale that Germany "will not consider any change in her submarine policy but that Germany will not declare war," likewise meets with no responsive echo here. Coming as it does on top of the official German announcement that her submarines sank the City of Memphis and the Illinois, and with the report of Captain Christopher of the American tanker Heddington, sunk in the "safety zone" off the Holland coast, absolutely without warning, this statement fell on deaf ears, so far as officialdom was concerned. No declaration of war now is necessary, officials say. International Law takes cognizance of acts before words can be considered and the acts of Germany following withdrawal of her solemn pledges that she would conduct cruiser warfare, with her submarines have constituted the carrying on of open hostilities in the opinion of nearly all officialdom.

Today's cabinet meeting was expected further to consider the plans for coordination and unity of action between all government departments. Already the various secretaries have made giant strides in effecting an agreement whereby red tape shall be to the minimum and the departments work in unison so that all false motion shall be eliminated. This will be absolutely necessary in order to meet the developments of the present crisis.

In addition the general plan of finance was expected to be discussed. The question of financial support to Germany's enemies is still under discussion and wide differences of opinion have developed in congress. What action the president will decide to take on this subject is, of course, known only to himself. He has asked for the advice of the cabinet and will have that for guidance. In addition he expects to confer during the present week with members of congress and financiers generally so that he will be able to definitely discuss the subject in his message to congress.

Symphony Orchestra and Artist.

The coming Symphony Orchestra concert, with Hans Kronold, cellist, as soloist, promises to be one of the best ever given by this organization. All through the fall and winter the orchestra has been working painstakingly on the great "Jupiter" Symphony by Mozart, which will be given at the concert on Saturday evening of this week at the high school auditorium. Great and masterly as is this symphony, it is also exceedingly musical and appealing to music lovers and musicians alike. Several shorter numbers will be played by the orchestra, while Mr. Kronold will play two groups of "Solo songs" as follows: Borch's beautiful "Kol Nidrei," demanding just such business and breadth of tone as is produced by this artist; "Sonata," by Beethoven; the delightful "Rondeau" from Boccherini's "Sonata for Cello," demanding the greatest technique from the player. The second group will be the following compositions: "Evening Light," by Rimsky; "Orientele," by Caesar; "Romanza," by Grieg; and "Russian Dance," by Simon. Patrons and subscribers should make out their checks to Mrs. C. N. Reed, who is acting as temporary secretary and treasurer for the orchestra. The diagram for the exchange of tickets will be open for patrons at Winter's music store on John street on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, for subscribers at the same place on Thursday morning at the same hour; and for the general public on Friday morning at the same hour and place. Tickets for school children will be distributed to the schools this week, and as the public rehearsal comes on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and no rushing from school will be necessary, it is hoped that there will be a large attendance of pupils and teachers on Saturday afternoon.

TAKE AGRICULTURE OUT OF POLITICS

That is Change Proposed in Legislature Which Will Hear Farmers and Grangers Upon Suggested Changes, By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, March 27.—Men prominent in agricultural circles from many sections of the state are seeking to bring about a change in the Agricultural Law whereby the state department of agriculture will be taken out of politics. The necessity of retaining a scientific and experienced commissioner of agriculture beyond the term of the executive who appointed him, is being urged by those who have agricultural matters at heart and who are identified with many of the institutions where scientific courses in agriculture are given.

According to the belief of those who are behind the project under discussion, too much politics attends appointments made in the department of agriculture. This does not mean that all the appointments there are political, but that there are many positions which are given and taken as patronage. At least this claim is made.

The first step to take the state department of agriculture out of politics made this year, occurred a week or so ago when a delegation of prominent farmers and representatives of the grange and horticultural societies waited upon him and asked that he endorse a proposition to have a commission created the jurisdiction of which over agricultural matters to be supreme.

As has been explained previously, the commission proposed would be made up of representatives from each of the judicial districts of the state, the plan outlined being to give each commissioner a term of office extending for nine years. One commissioner would serve from each judicial district.

A prominent advocate for a change in the agricultural law, so as to make it possible for the commissioner of agriculture to serve without check and in much the same manner as the state commissioner of education, states that not until there is established a definite policy as regards the regulation of the state department of agriculture can there be any material advancement in the department of agriculture. His point is that the retention of experts who will not be disturbed by changes in administration, is the only sure method of raising the standard of the department in question.

The plan advanced by those who are behind the proposed innovation is that the state department of agriculture be divided into bureaus, each bureau to be in charge of an expert and broad enough in scope to include every branch which might be reasonably expected to be classified under it. The appointments of such experts as might be selected as bureau chiefs to be made with the assurance that the term of office is to be permanent, or at least for a reasonably long period.

Last year a bill embodying these features was introduced but failed of passage. Every effort is being made to pass the law for the passage of a similar measure this year. Governor Whitman has expressed his willingness to approve it if it passes both houses of the legislature and reaches him before adjournment.

The necessity of placing the state department of agriculture upon a footing never before attempted, is declared to be imperative under the conditions which prevail, so that the high cost of living be reduced and more authority be granted to those who have in charge the work of encouraging sheep raising, farming and the dairy industry.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, March 26.—At the meeting of the Ellenville Musical Club held at the home of the president, Mrs. Henry Horton, Thursday evening, following the most excellent program given, the subject "Oratorios," which has been announced, the annual election of officers was held and all those holding office the past year were reelected. President, Mrs. Horton; vice president, Miss A. Eliza Cox; secretary, Mrs. J. H. Divine; treasurer, Mrs. C. Dwight Divine. The club, whose membership numbers forty, have joined the National Federation of Musical Clubs, making the eighteenth to join in New York state. This club has been very successful in the past year and it hopes to do even better the coming year. A program will be carried out at a meeting of the club every three weeks. At this meeting the subject of Red Cross work was taken up and a committee of four, Mrs. Horton, Miss Cox, Mrs. Wilkoff and Mrs. Maines were appointed to meet with committees from the different local organizations at Edgebrook club house Monday afternoon, the result of which will be announced later.

Thursday evening last the closing lecture of the pleasant night entertainments given at the M. E. Church had a large audience and proved to be the most interesting of all the lectures. It was a patriotic evening and proved very profitable to all attending. A large number of the boys and girls of the village attended and showed much for the town by the hearty applause given. The Rev. W. H. Moser gave a short history with stereoscopic views of the life of Lincoln. Miss Edith Wright gave a most excellent reading, Paul Revere's ride, which was also illustrated on the screen. Mrs. Moser also gave a reading which was illustrated. The opening song, "America," with Mr. Campbell at the organ, the entire audience standing, sang very heartily. Other songs were "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "Marching Through Georgia." Mr. Moser sang the verses while the audience joined heartily in the chorus. "The American flag," also the picture of our President Wilson, as shown on the screen, received hearty and lengthy applause.

Ellenville high school basketball team defeated the high school team of Middletown by a large score at Norbury Hall Friday evening. A one sided game is not interesting to those attending. The young people enjoyed dancing at the close of the game.

A teachers' conference of the district was held at the high school on Friday beginning at 10:30 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting was to have the teachers of the town of Waverburg meet Miss Dow, the physical training instructor for the town, who outlined the work to be done in the schools. The home making department in the school served luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Andrews entertained a company of their friends at their home on Center street Friday evening. A variety of games were enjoyed for an hour or more and refreshments followed, which were enjoyed with a pleasant social intercourse.

At the Reformed Church Sunday morning the ordination and installation of elders and deacons was held and a brief history of the local church given. The Reformed Protestant Dutch Church of Ellenville was organized in the original church edifice by order of the Classis of Orange on August 18, 1840, the Rev. John T. Demarest of New Prospect presiding as moderator. The initial membership consisted of twenty-six, nine male and seventeen female. The first consistory was chosen by the ballot of the male members in full communion and was as follows: Elders, John Brodhead, Matthew Cantline, Abraham I. Bevier, Jasper Gilbert; deacons, C. B. Newkirk, Joseph Frear, John Adams and A. B. Preston. Mr. Preston was chosen as stated clerk of consistory, and on September 15, 1840, the consistory men elect with the exception of John Brodhead and A. B. Preston, who were necessarily absent, were regularly ordained and installed by the Rev. Robert P. Lee of Montgomery, representing classis. John Brodhead and A. B. Preston were ordained and installed later, November 8, 1840, by the Rev. John W. Ward of Nanamoch, who acted for that occasion. Fortunately not all the masculine dignity of the congregation were exhausted in filling the elder and deacon seats since there was one male left to adorn the pews of the audience proper. The present consistory consists of twelve members, of which the pastor, Rev. W. H. Maines, is president, with a large membership of the church. Following the ordination service Dr. Maines delivered a very able sermon, taking for his theme, "Modern Men and the Kingdom of God." There was also a fine anthem rendered by the choir, of which S. A. Van Wagner is leader and Mrs. Louis Tenney organist.

The Sunday school class styled "Eagles" of the M. E. Church, with members of the "Jennie Wrens," gave one of the Wrens, Miss Jennie McDowell, a very pleasant surprise at her home on North Main street Saturday evening. With games, music and a fine supper, the young people spent an enjoyable evening. Miss Evelyn B. Bailey has returned to New York, while Mrs. Bailey will visit her son, Edwin J. Bailey and wife, at Albany, before coming to spend some time in Ellenville.

Frederick S. Dellenbaugh of New York spent the past week at Cragmoor in the interest of his property, there.

Miss Fannie Brown is spending a week or two with friends and relations at Bridgeport and Waterbury, Conn.

GLASCO.

Glasco, March 26.—For the past week people have been talking about the fine spring weather and refer to the signs of its coming. The piano on wheels has arrived. The small boy has put away his skates and sled and brought out tops and marbles. The ice in the river broke up on Friday afternoon. Sir Robin came and hopped around among the branches of the old pear tree as if looking for a place to nest again. Garden seeds "that grow," and some that never grow, are seen in store windows. These are some of the usual forerunners, but if you want to hear the first real unfurling note of spring, you must wait until you hear the "peepers" in the lowlands, then you can depend on ethereal mildness, but not before. Don't try to rush the season by changing your underwear, March has shifting moods and pneumonia germs lurk in the chill of the evening air.

Glasco is up-to-date on preparedness. Leo Pole, who has not forgotten his experience a Camp Beckman, has mustered a company of young fellows and drills and marches them through the streets every fine day. If war comes, Leo will be right in it. There are seventeen automobiles owned in this village and several more prospective ones are coming. John W. Lent, administrator of the estate of Robert Lent, has sold two or three tenant houses to Samuel Barony.

Brick barges will be coming along this week in the first up tow and loading will begin without delay.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Success comes to many by chance, but they always give themselves the credit.

Enthusiasm is the beginning and the culmination, of all things worth while.

SIMPLE FISH SALADS.

A can of salmon may be transformed into dozens of delightful salads using celery, pickles, coconut, cucumber, tomatoes, capers, and any number of other combinations. A Bermuda onion, shaved fine; a little cabbage, a can of salmon, and a sour pickle, finely chopped, mixed with a good dressing, makes a most tasty salad.

Crab-Meat Salad.—Use twice as much crab-meat as celery, cut very fine, stir them into a mayonnaise dressing. Break the meat into uniform pieces, heap upon a bed of lettuce and pour the dressing over it. Serve cold.

Sardine Salad.—Cut two stalks of celery into small pieces, chop a half teaspoonful of parsley, remove the skins and bones from a box of sardines and break into small pieces. Toss all together and chill. Serve with a holl dressing, diluted with some of the olive oil from the sardine can, if it is of good flavor.

Oyster Salad.—Small oysters are better to use for a salad, as the larger ones when cut look unattractive. Scald the oysters in their own liquor until the edges curl, drain and carefully remove all pieces of shell, set on ice to chill until serving time. To every quart of oysters allow two stalks of celery, cut into quarter-inch pieces. When time to serve, toss the oysters and celery together in a salad bowl which has been rubbed with the cut side of a clove of garlic, then pour over the following dressing: Beat the yolks of three eggs until thick, add a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of cayenne and half a teaspoonful of mustard, the grated yolks of two hard-boiled eggs and two tablespoonfuls of olive oil; pour in slowly while the mixture is being beaten. Beat until smooth, thin with three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice or mild vinegar.

Tuna Fish Salad.—This is a fish which is especially fine flavored, called the turkey of the sea. It is sometimes canned under the name of tunny fish. Use the shredded fish with celery and any salad dressing with a bit of sour pickle, finely chopped, or a tablespoonful of chow chow or piccalilli.

RIFTON TRAGEDY RECALLED IN SUIT

Details of Accident in Which Miss Bessie C. Carter Met Death Related in Supreme Court—Father Seeks $10,000 Damages.

On October 7, 1910, while Dr. William Kemble was driving a big Allen-Kingston automobile car near the village of Rifton an accident occurred which resulted in the death of Miss Bessie C. Carter of this city and Francis E. Carter, as administrator has brought an action in supreme court to recover for the death of his daughter. Mr. Carter seeks $10,000 from the village of Rifton.

At the time of the accident Dr. Kemble and Miss Carter were riding along in Dr. Kemble's car and when two hundred feet south of the Dashville Falls, going toward New Paltz, Dr. Kemble stalled his engine while negotiating a bad stretch of road and after applying his brakes brought the car to a stop. As he started his engine, it began to skid backward. There were no chains on the wheels and road had been made slippery by a drizzle of rain and before the wheels caught hold the car had slipped off from the road and over the precipice into the Walkkill. There was no guard rail at the point but simply a log laid along the bank of the stream. The car weighed over 4,000 pounds and crashed through the log which was rotten, dropping 20 feet into the water of stream and pinning Miss Carter and Dr. Kemble underneath. Dr. Kemble was able to free himself although badly hurt but Miss Carter was drowned.

Howard B. Coleman, an engineer in the employ of the state highway department and having an office at Poughkeepsie, was the first witness called and told of the section of the road at the point of the accident. There is a steep incline at the point and in 1910 there was no improved road but simply a narrow dirt road. The road has since been improved and a guard rail erected all along the stream.

Milton O. Auchmoody, who has known the road ever since he was a small boy, testified to the condition of the road and also in regard to the guard rail. There was none there with the exception of logs placed along the stream. He had visited the scene a few days after the accident when pictures were taken. At the point of the accident the roadway is twenty-five feet from the edge of the stream with a slight grade toward the bank of the stream and the bank is covered with grass and then a sharp drop of twenty feet to the stream below.

Dr. Kemble also has an action pending against the village as a result of the accident.

Dr. William Kemble on the stand stated that Miss Carter was employed by him as a student nurse and on the evening of the accident he was making her home shortly after one o'clock in the morning when he decided to go to New Paltz to exchange a gas tank on the car. He invited Miss Carter to go along and after proceeding to beyond Rifton he stalled his engine on a bad section of the road. In starting he threw the car into low but instead of moving ahead, it began to slide backward. A rain had fallen and made the road very slippery and even after he had applied his brakes the car continued to slide back with the wheels locked.

Just as the car struck the bank of the stream Miss Carter shouted, "Look out we are going into the river." The next instant the heavy car turned over and fell into the river with the wheels in the air. Dr. Kemble succeeded in releasing himself from the car and got to the bank where after a time he was able to call for help. Miss Carter was dead when taken from the wreckage.

William Dupraw, a chauffeur for Mrs. Dimmick, and one of the men who helped with the rescue work, was called. He had often driven over the road and described the roadway. There was no guard rail there he said.

Francis E. Carter, father of the dead girl, testified that his daughter was 24 years old at the time of her death. She had been working for Dr. Kemble for some time before the accident and had turned over the money she earned to her mother. Mrs. Carter died within a short time after the death of her daughter and after the accident to her daughter had never been well, being confined to her bed most of the time.

The last witness called by Mr. Brinnier, attorney for the plaintiff, was Charles R. Dixon, automobile repair man, who removed the car from the stream. He had been employed in the factory of the Allen-Kingston Company and was familiar with the car. He was at the scene of the accident on the following day at 10 o'clock and was sure there was no guard rail along the stream. The

WAS DR. KEMBLE'S AUTO IN REVERSE?

Defense of Village of Rifton in Damage Suit Deals With Driver's Action at Time of Accident.

Was Dr. William Kemble's automobile in reverse gear when it backed off the bank at Rifton on October 7, 1910, and resulted in the death of Miss Bessie C. Carter? Shortly after the accident while the people from Dimick farm were busy releasing the body of Miss Carter, Dr. Kemble was on the bank of the stream and, according to one of the witnesses for the defense in the Carter-Rifton damage action, he stated that the car had become stalled on the hill and in shifting to a lower gear he had "put her in reverse and backed off the bank."

County Superintendent Loughran was called and testified to the road at the point of the accident. He told of the various grades along the road in that vicinity.

A. S. Chase, who released the girl's body from the wreck, was called. He arrived on the scene among the first and waded in the water and after lying down in the stream in an endeavor to release the body he attached a rope to the car and men on the bank hauled the car up enough to pull Miss Carter's body from the water. The water was so deep at the point that at the time he released the body he was entirely covered with water as he lay on the rocks in order to work under the car where Miss Carter was.

George C. Hasbrouck, who worked at the Dimick farm and was the first man on the scene, testified that Dr. Kemble told him that the car was in reverse gear and backed off the bank. Mr. Hasbrouck heard the shouts for help and found Mr. Kemble in the river. As he was unable to do anything until a ladder was brought so as to get down to the water over the cliff he returned to the house and gave the alarm to the workmen and then returned to the river where Dr. Kemble was hanging from a rock. After Dr. Kemble had been gotten on the bank and was being assisted to the Hasbrouck house he told how he had made a mistake in shifting gears and had got into reverse by mistake and backed off the bank.

Samuel Brown, another one of the rescuing party, and who was down in the stream helping release Miss Carter, testified that he had heard no one say that the car was in reverse at the time it went over the bank.

William Dupraw, Mrs. Dimick's chauffeur, who helped in the rescue work and who was one of the men who assisted Dr. Kemble up to the house, heard Dr. Kemble say that the car was in reverse. Some dispute arose as to whether a motor truck had gone in where the Kemble car went over the bank and the witnesses finally fixed the point where the truck left the road as several feet north of the place where the Kemble car had left the road. A few months before the Kemble car went over the bank John Schoonmaker's car left the road at the same spot and ran over toward the Walkkill river. It did not go in the creek as the Kemble car did but was stopped.

The case will be continued this afternoon and will probably be concluded before night.

John C. Freund Comes Tomorrow.

Wednesday, John C. Freund, one of the unique and pioneer figures in the musical history of this country today, will come to Kingston where for two days he will be the guest of the city, telling us of the musical status of our country and learning of Kingston's musical possibilities. It is the sincere wish of the Kingston Symphony Orchestra to entertain Mr. Freund some time tomorrow afternoon or evening (for a few moments following the Rotary Club dinner) playing for him a part of their Saturday evening program. The only thing that will make this impossible will be the inability of a number of the men to leave their work in time to accomplish this fact, for they will be again called upon to give up valuable time on Saturday in order to give our school children the public rehearsal on Saturday afternoon. At 6:30 tomorrow the Rotary Club will give a dinner in honor of Mr. Freund at the West Shore Hotel, and in turn the Rotarians will hear from Mr. Freund regarding his special message. On Thursday morning our guest will address our high school pupils, at the school, and at noon he will be the guest and honored speaker at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon to be given in his honor at the Eagle Hotel. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the Federation of Women's Clubs will give a reception and a short musical program for Mr. Freund, at the chapel of the First Dutch Church, where he will speak once more. On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the big public, free meeting will be held at the high school, to which the entire public of Kingston is invited to hear Mr. Freund give his now famous lecture on "American Musical Independence."

Classics of Ulster to Meet.

The Classics of Ulster will meet in the Mount Pleasant Reformed Church Tuesday, April 10. There will be a morning session at 9:30 and an afternoon popular service at 2 o'clock. Rev. William Sinclair of Roxbury will preach the sermon. The report on the state of religion will be given by Rev. J. V. Wemple of Saugerties.

Added Attraction for Concert.

Among the many good attractions offered to the music-loving public of this city at the coming Symphony Concert on Saturday, the orchestra announces the appearance of Harry P. Dodge at the piano. Mr. Dodge on a previous occasion accompanied Hans Kronold at a big concert given in Utica where his work called forth the most favorable comment from the music critics of that city. Mr. Dodge will accompany Mr. Kronold both in the afternoon and evening Saturday.

Where Did She Get It?

By ALAN HINSDALE

Jim Warfield and I were chums at college, and Jim invited me to spend the holidays with him. We arrived late at night. The next morning I arose early and went downstairs.

In the library warming his hands before an open fire was a little girl about nine years of age. Her young face was very antipodes of the familiar with warming his hands, but there was in it an intelligence beyond the child's years.

"You're Jim's chum, aren't you?" she said.

"Yes."

"In your college are they all men?"

"They are."

"Men think they know a lot, don't they?"

"A-ha! I perceive that you are one of the votes for women party, or your mother is. Since you are too young to hit upon this reform yourself I presume you get it from mamma."

She neither affirmed nor denied this, but continued her anaesthetics upon me.

"Don't you think that when a woman marries it's mighty mean that she should give up her name and be tagged on to her husband's?" she asked.

"If that were not done, what would be the names of the children? What's your first name?"

"Imogen."

"Well, suppose you grow up and are married. But perhaps since you don't like men you won't ever be married."

"Yes, I will. Do you think I want to be an old maid? But I won't take my husband's name, though."

"You'll be Imogen Warfield. Now, suppose you marry a man of the name of Brown. What will your daughter's name be?"

"She'll be Imogen Brown-Warfield."

"And suppose she marries Mr. Jones. What will their daughter's name be?"

"Why, it can be Imogen Brown-Jones-Warfield."

"And suppose this girl marries Mr. Smith. What will their daughter's name be?"

"Imogen Brown-Jones-Smith-Warfield. But she needn't keep them all. She can be the same as I am—Imogen Warfield."

I smiled. She had been too smart for me. Why not retain the name of Warfield instead of the names of the successive husbands?

As soon as I was apprised of her return to her home I called.

"Why have you concealed from me the votes for woman's cause?"

"No, mamma doesn't take any interest in that."

"Well, I'm sorry that you have imbibed such notions."

"Why, don't you think women ought to vote?"

"No. I'm an anti. I don't like that sort of women. I'll never marry one of them."

The child's attention was attracted from me to some one who entered the room at the moment. Turning, I faced a young lady.

"Good morning, Mr. Ellis," she said, putting out her hand. "I'm Jim's sister Alice. We've heard a lot about you from Jim and have wished to see you for some time. Run away, Imogen."

Imogen went out of the room, leaving me alone with her older sister.

After a few general remarks I asked:

"From whom does the little girl imbib her prejudice against men?"

"Has she such a prejudice? She certainly cannot have imbibed it from me. I have no such prejudice myself."

Other members of the family came into the room, and the matter of woman's aspirations was not again mentioned. We all went in to breakfast together, and my visit had begun.

If Jim had invited me down for my company he must have been disappointed. I spent most of my time with his sister, who was a very pretty and otherwise attractive girl. I saw nothing more of Imogen, but became so wrapped up in Alice that I forgot to pursue by inquiries as to whom the child had drawn her ideas from with regard to men. Her mother was a very feminine woman, and, as for Alice, she was gentle as a dove. At any rate, if she regarded men as tyrants she surely accepted me, for she accepted every attention I gave her, and when I left the house the day before the opening of the new year I certainly had made myself an object of interest to the rest of the family as a possible party for the oldest daughter.

When the spring recess occurred I availed myself of it to go down and see Alice again and proposed to her. I was duly accepted and rejoiced in the prospect of possessing one of the most unobtrusive, self-abnegating young women I had ever met.

I was graduated in June and went to the city. There I encountered a convention of suffragists. On the day following my arrival there was a large feminine parade. Curiosity led me to stand on a curb and view the procession. What was my surprise to see at the head of one of the divisions, mounted astride, in man's riding costume, my fiancée, Alice Warfield!

As soon as I was apprised of her return to her home I called.

"Why have you concealed from me the votes for woman's cause?"

"No, mamma doesn't take any interest in that."

"Well, I'm sorry that you have imbibed such notions."

"Why, don't you think women ought to vote?"

that you are a suffragist?" I asked.

"I haven't concealed; I have merely not mentioned it. The morning after your arrival I heard you say to Imogen that you would not marry a suffragist. I determined that you should."

And she had her way. All women do, before marriage and after marriage. Why they want any more of their way, if that were possible, I can't imagine.

Wonderful Siberian Railway.

The great railway of 5,000 miles in length that runs across Siberia is one of the most marvelous in the world, first because of the difficulties that had to be faced in building it and, secondly, because of its enormous length.

For nearly 1,000 miles along this steel track the line crosses an almost treeless plain. All the stations along these weary miles are at least thirty miles apart, and most of the villages are a long way from the stations.

In winter this Siberian line is one continuous view of snow, stretching for miles along the seemingly endless desert. Sometimes the villages and stations are almost buried in snow, and not infrequently the train gets snowed out. Water for the stoves and the engines has to be brought steaming hot, lest it should freeze on the way, and often men at the stations in the depth of winter have to chop off long icicles from the engine and cars. But even the intense cold has its advantages, for dairy products, such as cheese and butter, can be carried by rail without having to be put into refrigerating trucks.

Baths For the Canary.

Under normal conditions most birds probably bathe daily, and canaries in captivity should be allowed the same opportunity. When individual birds obstinately refuse to enter the water gently spraying usually will induce them to bathe.

Small china dishes that are not too deep make good bathing pans. When a bird becomes accustomed to one dish it usually will refuse to bathe in another one of different shape and color. In winter the water should be warmed until tepid. Even in warm weather too cold water is not advisable. If the room, ordinarily warm, becomes cold temporarily, birds should not be allowed to bathe.

During molt the bath should be given not more than twice each week. When breeding the female canary should not be allowed to bathe from the time the eggs hatch until the young are three or four days old.—United States Department of Agriculture Bulletin.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 27, 1917.

Something of the strain under which the State Department has labored during the repeated exhibitions of faithfulness on the part of the Imperial Government of Germany is now being exhibited through the reply of Secretary Lansing to German efforts for an amplification of the ancient treaty between the United States and Prussia, executed in 1799 and reaffirmed in 1828. The frequent violations of the provisions of the covenant, which was assumed by the German Empire upon its establishment, have been viewed and reviewed in the press even before the sinking of the Frye and since. The futility of attempting to enter into any new agreements respecting the scope of these treaties is obvious in the light of German promises and German performances. That such treaties have been abrogated by the unwarranted attacks upon our shipping is one conclusion that our Government is "seriously considering," in the words of the secretary of state. It is a similar condition with respect to Belgian relief work, from which we have withdrawn our diplomatic representatives and members of the American Commission. Not often has one Government made such charges against another in the attempted carrying out of a humane undertaking. In its announcement of the instructions to Minister Whitlock and others engaged in Belgian relief ample justification is found for the Washington Government's course.

There is a very gratifying feature of the news from the territory recently gained by the French troops. It is stated that expressions of gratitude toward America were among the first words heard from the women and children who had spent 32 months within the German lines, the rescued declaring that but for Americans they would have died of hunger. Though much more might have been done for the sufferers in the war zone, American benevolence has accomplished not a little.

The spectacle of Nicholas Romanoff, deposed Czar, shoveling snow in the gardens at Tsarskoe-Selo, is pretty difficult even for the most vivid imagination to picture. The dispatches say that he enjoys it. If that is true, there is hope for Nick. Yet the wonder does not abate at the ease with which the turn-over was accomplished. Russian thought and the passion for liberty exhibited by so many exiled leaders had laid a surer foundation for the change than seemed possible. Such intellectual and political expansion of a people thrives best under persecution. Hans Christian Andersen once wrote a fanciful tale for children about a king for whom some swindlers pretended to make an invisible suit of clothes. When the king went his nobles to view the garments, rather than be set down for fools, they praised the non-existent articles as of superior color and texture. When the king came to don his new gear, he saw that there was no clothing whatever, but rather than risk his power by showing himself unable to see what others apparently perceived, he pretended to don the clothes and rode off in state. His people accepted the judgment of the nobles and of himself and praised his wonderful robes but a little child in the crowd exclaimed, "But, he has nothing on!" Later the people came to see the child's judgment was correct, but the order was then established and there was no turning back. It is when some great ruler is unconsciously deposed and drops the scepter for the snow shovel that we read the real meaning into some of the so-called fairy tales of an older time, supposedly written for the entertainment of children.

Not to be numbered among the ordinary incidentals to the forthcoming extraordinary session of Congress is the presence of Miss Jeanette Rankin, who will be recognized on the floor as "the lady from Montana." The assignment of a room in the House office building to the new Congresswoman develops the important fact that directly across the corridor is the office of Representatives Moses P. Kinkaid of Nebraska, reputed to be a confirmed bachelor. More of the same sort of stuff will very likely be interspersed with the important tidings which will begin to flow from the National Capitol within the next few days. It is unfortunate that there is no Hall of Fame in the Smithsonian where a convenient niche could be found for this feminine rara avis. There she could hold forth for the admiration of Suffragettes and sightseers and avoid distracting the attention of the statesmen and correspondents at the capitol from the serious business in hand. The crisis confronting the country offers no legitimate opportunity for a petticoat to assume the center of the stage unless some treasonable joker turns a mouse loose in the halls of legislation.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

Gwendolyn—"I hear that Fanny Forty-odd is to be married. Who is the happy man?" Grace—"Why her father."—Puck.

"Why did you spell 'bank' with a capital, Bobby?" "Cause pa says a bank ought always to have a good big capital."—Boston Transcript.

"Doctors in one way are a very exceptional class." "What way is that?" "Why, when they treat a man, they make him pay for it."—Baltimore American.

"Can you prove all you say?" "Perhaps not," replied Senator Sorgum. "But things are saying up. There are a lot of things I could prove that I don't say."—Washington Star.

The Lady—"And you may say we suspect a discharged butler of the robbery?" Reporter—"When was he discharged?" The Lady—"Oh, we never really kept a butler, but I think it sounds well."—Judge.

"I certainly would like to pick up a newspaper that wasn't full of big black headlines," said the fractious man. "Tired of reading war news?" "Yes. And to make matters worse, I've reached the point where I believe nearly everything I read."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Makes a Difference.

Among the patients in a certain hospital there was one disposed to take a dark view of chances of recovery, according to the New York American. "Cheer up, old man," admonished the youthful medico attached to the ward wherein the patient lay. "Your symptoms are identical with those of my own case four years ago. I was just as ill as you are. Look at me now." The patient ran his eyes over the physician's stalwart frame. "Yes, but what doctor did you have?" he finally asked, feebly.

A Big Handicap.

A certain senator, deploring the dishonest methods of one type of business man, once said, with a smile: "It all brings back to me a dialogue I once heard in a southern school." "Children," said the teacher, "be diligent and steadfast, and you will succeed. Take the case of George Washington. Do you remember my telling you of the great difficulty George Washington had to contend with?" "Yes, ma'am," said a little boy. He couldn't tell a lie."—Christian Herald.

General Despair Followed.

The school was breaking up for the winter holidays, and the head master was addressing a few remarks to the pupils. "In conclusion," said he, "owing to the shortage of tutors, we shall have to rely upon your next term to do a great deal of private study, but—" "Hooryay!" cried the school. "But, as I was about to remark," continued the head, "we find that private study is inefficient, we shall have to call in the aid of corporal punishment!"—Rochester Times.

Pity the Poor.

A south side man who keeps a few chickens has been getting table scraps from the home of his sister, who has a large family, relates the Buffalo Commercial. Calling for the first time in a week he found a half bushel basket filled with scraps of bread, bits of meat, left-over canned corn and fruit, and other odds and ends. The south side man was proceeding carefully along the icy pavement on Elk street when he slipped, struggled frantically, and finally flopped. The basket turned over and over, scattering the contents for yards about. A pretty girl who happened to be passing attempted to help the prostrate man regain his footing. "Oh!" said the man, "don't mind me, I'm all right." "At any rate," the girl smiled glancing at the wrecked basket, "I know you will let me help you gather up your lunch."

The basketball and dance held in the Grange Hall on Friday evening was a great success in spite of the fact that the Centrals of Kingston telephoned at 7 o'clock to the manager of the local team that they would not come. But with the help of some of the soldiers and some others a double team was arranged and played a very interesting game.

No use to go to New York City to see specialists, for the treatment given by Dr. Swinburne is most effective, and has cured many patients, after New York specialists had failed. It will cost nothing to consult this most successful physician and talk over your case, and if you decide to take his treatment the charges are very reasonable. Ham and Eggs
The World's Best Breakfast

At the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, the depot lunchroom in Lonesome Gulch, Nevada, on steamers, in dining cars, in restaurants—or at home—

Ham and eggs for breakfast stand first in favor.

But there are ham and eggs—and Ham and Eggs. To insure the absolute "limit" of good breakfast "eats" insist on Morris Supreme Ham and Supreme Eggs—Supreme in fact as well as in name.

Only the finest young porkers of uniform size and shape—Government-inspected and approved—are good enough for Supreme Ham.

The Morris cure assures just the right flavor—the piquant tang—the acid hint of hickory smoke—that distinguish this perfect ham. Try it tomorrow morning.

GIRL WHO CARRIED OUT STRANGE SUICIDE PACT WITH CHUM.

The police of Portsmouth, N. H., are still puzzled over the strange double suicide of Miss Margaret Spaulding, a Wellesley College girl, and her chum, Miss Ethel Stanton. CORRECT LINES.

Army blue broadcloth develops this attractive suit built for maidens. The full skirt nevertheless manages to hobble in, and the Russian blouse takes a full peplum thrice tucked. Satin sailor collar and cuffs add a natty touch, as does the navy straw sailor hat.

FISH FOR LENT.

Attractive Ways to Serve Meatless Dishes at This Season.

Fish for baking, broiling or broiling purposes is the most economical to purchase because of the second meal possibilities. The skin, bones and trimmings go to the stock pot, while the carefully prepared, leftover meat can be used for a turbid, croquette, chowder, soufflé, pudding or one of a number of other made dishes.

Fish that agrees with some stomachs when freshly cooked causes infinite disturbance when warmed over, so it is wisdom to study carefully the fish diet of each member of the family.

When broiling a fish it should be put on the fire in cold water so that it will cook through properly. If hot water is used the outside is done while the inside meat is still uncooked. If a broiled fish is allowed to stand in the air for any length of time before serving the meat becomes "woolly" and uninviting.

Warm and thoroughly greased the grilliron or broiler and the fish will not adhere to it.

A fish broiled under gas, skin side down, does not require turning any more than a planked fish. The oil, grease or fat in which fish are to be fried should be melted and hot before the fish is put in. In frying the fish should be covered until it has been turned once, then uncover it and lightly brown.

Whitebait are fried in a fine mesh wire basket in deep fat. When done they should be carefully drained and served in a napkin, garnished with lemon quarters and parsley. All pan fish, fish croquettes, chops and cakes should be well drained after frying. If sauces are to be served with them they should be put into a sauce boat.

A fish that is to be filleted should be prepared at home. One quickly learns how to do this after seeing it done once. All the bones and trimmings, which are paid for at the same rate as the meat, can be used to enrich the stock pot instead of fattening the waste pile.

Obscured Openings.

The frank buttons and buttonholes that for the last two seasons have announced to the world at large just how our blouses and frocks "did up" are things of the past. The new clothes, once we are in them, look as if they had been "wished on us" or that we had been poured into them in a liquid state and left to solidify. Not that they are especially tight, but there is no suggestion to a casual observer of an opening.

Knitted Fiber Hats.

There are stiff sunny straw hats—bright Irish green, coral and lobster pink and soldier and king's blue—also hats made of Hawaiian fiber thread, which is knitted and crocheted. It looks like beaded webbing or silk. These resemble the multicolored knitted beaded bags that have been carried so much.

Try This.

If you have to fasten something at your back and find difficulty in reaching it try putting your elbows on a shelf as high as your chest. Your arms thus supported will reach the hooks.

Contented and Discontented.

The man who is discontented merely finds fault with things as they are. The man who is not discontented is cheerfully determined to make things better than they are.—Youth's Companion.

THE NEXT HOUR.

As It May Be Your Last on Earth, Are You Ready to Meet It?

An editorial in the Woman's Home Companion says:

"Everything can happen in the next hour that has ever happened. It contains all the possibilities of a universe. In the next hour children will be born, men and women will die, whole worlds will be smashed to atoms and drop out of space and the girl you love go back on you. In the next hour the house may burn, you may quarrel with your best and dearest friend, some one may give you poison, your fortune may be stolen, the government may change, the temperature may rise or fall 40 degrees, and the world may come to an end.

"You plan how you will pass the next hour and, lo, the train is ditched, the auto turns turtle, Aunt Jane arrives, the neighbor's baby has convulsions, the house is struck by lightning, your tooth begins to ache, a telegram is delivered, the wires are out of order, you are discharged, somebody dies and leaves you a fortune, you are operated upon.

"The next hour is what you ever were and what you ever may be compressed into sixty minutes. It is the period of hope deferred, of supreme victory, of total annihilation and the entrance of an assured immortality. Fixed as the stars in heaven, unalterable as the law of gravity, it stands before you like the grim sphinx, containing within itself all the marvelous variety of human experience.

"To know how to meet the next hour with joy, with head erect, with courage singing in your heart is to solve the deep mystery of eternity."

Start Saving Now.

"You have to learn the virtue of thrift and saving before the age of twenty-five," says a banker. "In order to become thrifty and saving a young man must begin just as soon as he starts to earn money. There is only one way to save, and that is continuously and regularly. And when a man's salary is raised his savings should increase. It is remarkable how savings will accumulate. I claim that unless sickness prevents, and sickness is only too often the result of the lack of saving, that the average man who is willing to work and save can become reasonably independent at sixty. If you are wise, young man, you will start to save now."

ANNUAL ENTERTAINMENT.

Ushers' Club of Rondout Presbyterian Church on Wednesday.

The Ushers' Club of the Rondout Presbyterian Church will present their annual entertainment for the benefit of the "Calendar Fund" in the chapel of the church at eight o'clock Wednesday evening. They have arranged a very attractive program and one that will come up to the usual high standard set by the club. The program will consist of selections by the double male quartet (C. H. Bishop, C. R. O'Connor, C. S. Rowland, L. Elmendorf, F. Finley, B. Stevens, F. Schumaker and C. Terwilliger accompanied by Miss Elsa Hiltbrant), violin solo by Miss Marion Kingman, Scotch songs by Sam Tinnie, readings by Mrs. C. L. Cole and a new magical act by the Van Deusen Brothers.

The Ushers' Club is composed of the young men of the church who take care of the ushering and assume the financial responsibilities of issuing each Sunday the church calendar and all friends of the ushers are urged to be present to help and encourage the young men in their splendid work. Ice cream and cake will be on sale at the close of the entertainment and as a large number of tickets have already been disposed of a large attendance is expected.

MRS. JOSIAH E. COWLES.

FIVE MINUTE TALKS BY NATIONAL LEADERS.

By Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles, President General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Very significant of the growth, the power of co-operation and the strong sense of sisterhood among women of today is the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which, besides numbering 2,000,000 women in the United States, includes scattered clubs in faraway countries, Japan, India, Australia, South America and the West Indies.

The club movement has gone a long way in a few years, from those little groups that came together for self improvement to the great organizations of today, often numbering a thousand or more, whose chief aim is public service, and who use study and culture as a means of increasing efficiency.

That efficiency is steadily growing greater as the women recognize the meaning of federation. In each town clubs have gathered together into local federations of county or congressional district; these, again, are united into state federations, each with its officers and committees; still again the states are welded into the national body, where, besides the usual officers, there is a board of directors, one from each state.

Red Seals Issue Challenge.

362 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y.

To the manager of the Wilbur Feds and the fandom at large:

As there has been considerable comment in the past over the baseball game last summer between the Feds and the Red Seals, which was played on the Andrew street grounds, and which resulted in an argument, I hereby take this early opportunity of challenging the Feds to a game of baseball next Sunday, to be played on any grounds in the city, except Wilbur.

I am trying as nearly as possible to get my last year's team, but in order that no dispute may arise over players, my line-up is as follows:

Joyce, 2nd base; B. Kourke, short stop; George Roche, third base; J. Brost, catcher; C. Tierney, pitcher; G. Moxham, 1st field; I. Noonan, center field; S. Soper, right field; H. Moxham, 1st base.

Hoping to hear a reply in the affirmative, I remain

Yours in sport,
HARRY J. MOXHAM,
Mgr. Red Seal B. B. Club.

American Mineral Oil

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Use of Mineral Oil.

Dr. Le Tanneur contributes to the Paris Medical some practical points in the use of mineral oil in constipation. The oil, he says, is in no way digested or even modified by the juices of the stomach and intestines. It acts as a lubricant and nothing else, though it tends to heal abrasions of the intestinal wall caused by rough particles of food.

The New York Medical Journal says mineral oil should be taken either before breakfast or after dinner, two tablespoonsfuls being a dose. Its use should be continued every day for at least a fortnight, when the bowels will continue to work naturally without it, for the mineral oil is in no sense a cathartic, but it will cure constipation.—Kingston Daily Freeman, February 17, 1917.

WASHINGTON FOLK HEARD DR. SAHLER

Kingston Metaphysician Had Interesting Visit in National Capital—Entertained by Sons of the Revolution.

Dr. and Mrs. C. O. Sahler have just returned from Washington, D. C., where they have been on a trip of business and pleasure.

Dr. Sahler had been elected a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, and was received on Wednesday evening as a member of the District of Columbia Society, of which Admiral Theodore F. Jewell is president. It was a most interesting meeting. Admiral Jewell in his opening remarks urged members of the society to bring about a general display of the American flag in the District. A most stirring address was given by the speaker of the evening, Frederick L. Huidekoper, on the history of military training and policy. He said to send men out with only one hundred and ninety-two hours of preliminary training against those of three thousand or four thousand hours, as would be the case if this country went to war, would be like sending sheep to slaughter. The society met at Roushers, and at the close of the meeting served a banquet.

On Thursday Dr. and Mrs. Sahler were driven about Washington by Mrs. Brommell, wife of the late Col. Chas. C. Brommell, who transformed the unsightly and unhealthy bottom land along the Potomac in the District of Columbia into a most beautiful park where the great and beautiful Lincoln memorial monument is now under erection. On Thursday afternoon, Miss Margaret V. McCabe, regent of the Thomas Marshall Chapter, of which Mrs. Sahler is a member, escorted them through the capitol and the congressional library. At five o'clock they were entertained at the home of Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of state, by Mrs. Matheys T. Scott, former president general of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Eight o'clock Thursday evening, Dr. Sahler addressed a large audience at Pythian Temple on the subject of Metaphysical Healing. Several congressional members and cabinet officials were present as well as many prominent society folk. The lecture was followed by a most enthusiastic reception.

On Friday morning Dr. and Mrs. Sahler visited Mt. Vernon and in the evening returned to Kingston. While in Washington they were guests at the Hotel Powhatan.

MOMBACUS HEIGHTS.

The funeral of Frank Green, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Green of this place, who died early Sunday morning, was held from the Reformed Chapel on Wednesday afternoon. Owing to his youth, only 18 years, and the fact that he had been an invalid for the greater part of those years, makes his death seem more sad. His parents, several sisters and brother survive him. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. H. D. Frost of Accord. The bearers were William Beehmer, Ralph McDonald, George Hartline and Harold Van Etten, his boy friends.

Terry Simpson of Putnam and Mr. Rose of Newburg were in this place buying coons Friday and purchased one from Joel Lennon.

Veterinary McCartney of Ellenville was a professional caller in this vicinity last week.

Jerry Beehmer is not improving very rapidly.

The Rev. A. Quick and wife and Harold Van Etten spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. William DeFuy.

A young lady friend of Miss Carley has been spending the week with her at her boarding place and will substitute for her during her absence the coming week.

Dr. Kemble of Kingston was a professional caller at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Green one day last week.

Mrs. L. Van Etten, who has been ill a few days with neuralgia, is better.

Leslie and Percy Green, the former from Waterbury, Conn., and latter an employee of the West Shore Railroad were home to attend the funeral of their brother.

The physical training director visited our school on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Van Etten recently spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew M. Green.

Miss Gertrude Lovine, who has been spending the winter in New York has returned home.

Smith brothers have finished sawing wood at Mombacuss and are now located at Leibhardt.

The Lovine family, who were all ill last week, have recovered.

Mrs. Harry Smith and two children spent Friday night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Van Etten.

Miss Lula Terwilliger spent Sunday with Miss Wilma Beehmer, who is at the home of her grandfather at present.

SEAGER.

Seager, March 26.—Robins and bluebirds have once more made their appearance and indications of spring are very promising.

Scott Smith returned to this place last week after spending two weeks with his family in Kingston.

Carpenters and painters are making improvements on the interior of Forge cottage.

Russell Todd, who has his leg broken recently, is improving as well as can be expected. Dr. C. S. Allen is the attending physician.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gray of New York city arrived in this place last week.

The monthly business meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the home of Mrs. Minnie Todd on Thursday afternoon, March 29. The roll call will be Easter quotations.

Nearly all the farmers have their sap bushes tapped and will improve the sugar making season this year.

Wilbert Uter returned Saturday for a visit of several days with friends in New York city.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 27, 1917.

Something of the strain under which the State Department has labored during the repeated exhibitions of faithlessness on the part of the Imperial Government of Germany is now being exhibited through the reply of Secretary Lansing to German efforts for an amplification of the ancient treaty between the United States and Prussia, executed in 1799 and reaffirmed in 1828. The flagrant violations of the provisions of the covenant, which was assumed by the German Empire upon its establishment, have been viewed and reviewed in the press even before the sinking of the Frye and since. The utility of attempting to enter into any new agreements respecting the scope of these treaties is obvious in the light of German promises and German performances. That such treaties have been abrogated by the unwarranted attacks upon our shipping is one conclusion that our Government is "seriously considering," in the words of the secretary of state. It is a similar condition with respect to Belgian relief work, from which we have withdrawn our diplomatic representatives and members of the American Commission. Not often has one Government made such charges against another in the attempted carrying out of a humane undertaking. In its announcement of the instructions to Minister Whitlock and others engaged in Belgian relief other justification is found for the Washington Government's course.

There is a very gratifying feature of the news from the territory recently gained by the French troops. It is stated that expressions of gratitude toward America were among the first words heard from the women and children who had spent 22 months within the German lines, the renowned declaring that but for Americans they would have died of hunger. Through much more, which have been done for the sufferers in the war zone, American benevolence has accomplished not a little.

The spectacle of Nicholas Romanoff, deposed czar, shoveling snow in the gardens at Tsarskoe-Selo, is pretty difficult even for the most vivid imagination to picture. The dispatches say that he enjoys it. If that is true, there is hope for Nick. Yet the wonder does not abate at the ease with which the turn over was accomplished. Russian thought and the passion for liberty exhibited by so many exiled leaders had laid a surer foundation for the change than seemed possible. Such intellectual and political expansion of a people thrives best under persecution. Hans Christian Andersen once wrote a fanciful tale for children about a king for whom some swindlers pretended to make an invisible suit of clothes. When the king sent his nobles to view the garments, rather than be set down for fools, they praised the non-existent articles as of superior color and texture. When the king came to don his new gear, he saw that there was no clothing whatever, but rather than risk his power by showing himself unable to see what others apparently perceived, he pretended to don the clothes and rode off in state. The people accepted the pretense of the nobles and of himself and praised his wonderful robes but a little child in the crowd exclaimed, "But, he has nothing on!" Later the people came to see the child's judgment was correct, but the order was then established and there was no turning back. It is when some great ruler is unconsciously deceived and drops the pretense for the snow shovel that we read the real meaning into some of the so-called fairy tales of an older time, supposedly written for the entertainment of children.

Not to be numbered among the ordinary incidents to the forthcoming extraordinary session of Congress is the presence of Miss Jeanette Landin, who will be recognized on the floor as the only woman from Montana. The assignment of a room in the House office building to the Congresswoman develops the important fact that directly across the corridor is the office of Representative Messrs. P. K. Kinkaid of Nebraska, reputed to be a confirmed bachelor. More of the same sort of stuff will very likely be interspersed with the important items which will begin to flow from the National Capitol within the next few days. It is unfortunate that there is no Hall of Fame in the Smithsonian where a convenient niche could be found for this feminine rarity. There she could hold forth for the admiration of suffragettes and sightseers and avoid distracting the attention of the statesmen and correspondents at the Capitol from the serious business in hand. The crisis confronting the country offers no legitimate opportunity for a petticoat to assume the center of the stage unless some reasonable joker turns a mouse loose in the halls of legislation.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

Swendolyn. "I hear that Fanny Forty-odd is to be married. Who is the happy man?" Grace. "Why her father."—Puck.

"Why did you spell 'bank' with a capital, Bob?" "Cause pa says a bank ought always to have a good big capital."—Boston Transcript.

"Doctors in one way are a very exceptional class." "What way is that?" "Why, when they treat a man, they make him pay for it."—Baltimore American.

"Can you prove all you say?" "Perhaps not," replied Senator Sorghum. "But things average up. There are a lot of things I could prove that I don't say."—Washington Star.

The Lady. "And you may say we suspect a discharged butler of the robbery?" Reporter. "When was he discharged?" The Lady. "Oh, he never really kept a butler, but I think it sounds well."—Judge.

"I certainly would like to pick up a newspaper that wasn't full of big black headlines," said the fractious man. "Tired of reading war news?" "Yes. And to make matters worse, I've reached the point where I believe nearly everything I read."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Makes a Difference.

Among the patients in a certain hospital there was one disposed to take a dark view of chances of recovery, according to the New York American. "Cheer up, old man," admonished the youthful medical attendant to the ward wherein the patient lay. "Your symptoms are identical with those of my own case four years ago. I was just as ill as you are. Look at me now." The patient ran his eyes over the physician's stalwart frame. "Yes, but what doctor did you have?" he finally asked, feebly.

A Big Handicap.

A certain senator, deploring the dishonest methods of one type of business man, once said, with a smile: "It all brings back to me a dialogue I once heard in a southern school: 'Children,' said the teacher, 'be diligent and steadfast, and you will succeed. Take the case of George Washington. Do you remember my telling you of the great difficulty George Washington had to contend with?' 'Yes, ma'am,' said a little boy. 'He couldn't tell a lie.'"

Christian Herald.

General Despair Followed.

The school was breaking up for the winter holidays, and the head master was addressing a few remarks to the pupils. "In conclusion," said he, "owing to the shortage of tutors, we shall have to rely upon your next term to do a great deal of private study, but—" "Hooray!" cried the school. "But, as I was about to remark," continued the head, "if we find that private study is inefficient, we shall have to call in the aid of corporal punishment!"—Hochester Times.

Pity the Poor.

A south side man who keeps a few chickens has been getting table scraps from the home of his sister, who has a large family, relates the Buffalo Commercial. Calling for the first time in a week he found a half-lushed basket filled with scraps of bread, bits of meat, left-over canned corn and fruit, and other odds and ends. The south side man was proceeding carefully along the line of payment on Elk street when he slipped, struggled frantically, and finally dropped. The basket turned over and over, scattering the contents for yards about. A pretty girl who happened to be passing attempted to help the prostrate man regain his footing. "Oh!" said the man, "don't mind me. I'm all right." "At any rate," the girl smiled, glancing at the wrecked basket, "I know you will let me help you gather up your lunch."

The basketball and dance held in the Grange Hall on Friday evening was a great success in spite of the fact that the Centrals of Kingston telephoned at 7 o'clock to the manager of the local team that they would not come. But with the help of some of the soldiers and some others a double team was arranged and played a very interesting game.

Ham and Eggs
The World's Best Breakfast

AT the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, the depot luncheon in Lonesome Gulch, Nevada, on steamers, in dining cars, in restaurants—or at home—

Ham and eggs for breakfast stand first in favor.

But there are ham and eggs—and Ham and Eggs. To insure the absolute "limit" of good breakfast "eats" insist on Morris Supreme Ham and Supreme Eggs—Supreme in fact as well as in name.

Only the finest young porkers of uniform size and shape—Government-inspected and approved—are good enough for Supreme Ham.

The Morris cure assures just the right flavor—the piquant tang—the acid hint of hickory smoke—that distinguishes this perfect ham. Try it tomorrow morning.

COCONUT CUSTARD PIE
1 can of Baker's Fresh Grated Coconut, 1/2 cupful of sugar, pinch of salt, 1/4 cupful of milk, 2 eggs.
Beat eggs, milk, sugar and salt together, add can of coconut, pour into pie tin lined with pie crust. Bake in moderate oven on bottom rack thirty to thirty-five minutes, or until set. Try with silver knife; if knife comes out dry the pie is done; if the custard and coconut separate it has baked too long. This fills a seven-inch pie of regular depth. The crust is made as follows:
Sift one cupful of flour, pinch of salt into bowl; add two level table-spoonfuls of pure lard or double any other shortening; rub in lightly until well mixed; add enough cold water to hold together. The less water and handling the better the crust will be. Roll out on floured board. This will make a high edge on the pie.
P. S. Pastry flour is best.

KENNEDY SENT TWO MEN AFTER AUTOS

Rather Than Disappoint Reo Buyers, Central Garage Owner Made Special Delivery, Bringing Cars From Lansing, Michigan.

O. M. Kennedy, proprietor of the Central Garage, and local agent for the Reo automobile, has been having a busy season and on account of the large number of orders has been facing a problem of delivery. When the railroad strike threatened Mr. Kennedy decided not to disappoint any of his customers so he sent two of his men to Lansing, Michigan, with orders to bring back two Reo cars; one six and one four roadster. A week ago James Davis and Ed. Mower left Kingston for Lansing, Michigan, and on Thursday afternoon left for Kingston driving the two Reo cars. They arrived at Cleveland on Friday and on Saturday had passed Buffalo. Very bad roads were encountered on the trip, especially in the neighborhood of Erie, but the Reo cars ploughed through mud hub deep and on Monday arrived at the garage on Broadway.

The trip was completed without any difficulty in spite of the bad roads. Daily telegrams were sent to Mr. Kennedy announcing the progress of the cars and the trip was watched with the greatest interest by not only Mr. Kennedy but by other dealers in town. It had been Mr. Kennedy's intention to have the cars shipped to Buffalo aboard the lake steamers but as navigation had not opened up the cars were driven all of the way. When the drivers pulled up at the garage on Monday they were given a warm reception by the garage people. The roads at this time of the year are at their worst, many deep mud holes being encountered where the mud is axle deep. No attempt at speed was made by the drivers and a record run was not their object, the entire trip being made by easy stages more to demonstrate the dependability of the car and show that "you can do it with a Reo."

RED CROSS AUXILIARY.

Third Organization of the Kind Recently Formed in County.

On Saturday the third auxiliary of the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross was formed at Milton, the chapter secretary visiting that village and helping to form the auxiliary, which enrolled 52 members. A first aid class was also formed, and plans were completed for at once beginning the military relief work which includes the making of hospital garments, surgical dressings, etc. Mrs. Tuckerman was chosen chairman and R. N. Rownd, secretary of the auxiliary.

The local Kingston Chapter is especially desirous of having the work of making surgical dressings taken up at once and that in as energetic and general a way as possible. Supplies will be immediately

U. S. MAY LEND BILLIONS TO ALLIES IF WAR IS DECLARED.

In the event of war being declared between the United States and Germany, it is said to be the present plan of the administration to chiefly aid the allies in a financial sense. It would much prefer aid of this character rather than the raising of an army, which could not be completed for a year or more. Steps are being taken, it is said, to have congress authorize the president, should war enemies of Germany, to stamp out details in behalf of the United States would be Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo, Comptroller of the Currency John Skelton Williams, W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and Paul Warburg, vice-governor of the federal reserve board.

She Found Liberty in the Sword

Her Name Was Joan of Arc

ACROSS the dark horizon of medieval France there flashed the figure of the greatest woman who ever lived.

From the home of a peasant she rose by her own wondrous works until she stood beside kings.

She loved peace, yet she was the greatest warrior of her age.

In the shadow of oppression she found the light of liberty in the Sword of Battle.

Joan is dead—killed by the people she loved—but her spirit lives forever.

MISS MARGARET SPAULDING

GIRL WHO CARRIED OUT STRANGE SUICIDE PACT WITH CHUM

The police of Portsmouth, N. H. are still puzzled over the strange double suicide of Miss Margaret Spaulding a Wellesley College girl and her chum, Miss Ethel Stanton. The couple committed suicide in a cafe by shooting. The girls left a note in which they gave as their reason the fear that they might be separated from each other.

NEWEST MODEL.

What Youth Will Spring on Us About Easteride.

CORRECT LINE.

Army blue broadcloth develops this attractive suit built for maidens. The full skirt nevertheless manages to hobble in, and the Russian blouse takes a full poplin thrice tucked. Plain sailor collar and cuffs add a natty touch, as does the navy straw sailor hat.

FISH FOR LENT.

Attractive Ways to Serve Meatless Dishes at This Season

Fish for baking, broiling or broiling purposes is the most economical to purchase because of the second meal possibilities. The skin, bones and trimmings go to the stock pot, while the carefully prepared, leftover meat can be used for a turbot, croquettes, omelet, soufflé, pudding or one of a number of other meat dishes.

Fish that agrees with some stomachs when freshly cooked causes infinite disturbance when warmed over, so it is wisdom to study carefully the fish diet of each member of the family.

When broiling a fish it should be put on the fire in cold water so that it will cook through properly. If hot water is used the outside is done while the inside meat is still uncooked. If a broiled fish is allowed to stand in the air for any length of time before serving the meat becomes woolly and unpalatable. Warm and thoroughly grease the gridiron or broiler and the fish will not adhere to it.

A fish broiled under gas, skin side down, does not require turning any more than a planed fish. The oil grease or fat in which fish are to be fried should be melted and hot before the fish is put in. In frying the fish should be covered until it has been turned once, then uncover it and light it brown.

Whitebait are fried in a fine mesh wire basket in deep fat. When done they should be carefully drained and served in a napkin garnished with lemon quarters and parsley. All pan fish, fish croquettes, chops and cakes should be well drained after frying. If sauces are to be served with them they should be put into a sauce boat.

A fish that is to be filleted should be prepared at home. One quickly learns how to do this after seeing it done once. All the bones and trimmings which are paid for at the same rate as the meat, can be used to enrich the stock pot instead of fattening the waste pile.

Obscured Openings

The frank buttons and buttonholes that for the last two seasons have announced to the world at large just how our blouses and frocks "did up" are things of the past. The new clothes once we are in them, look as if they had been "washed on us" or that we had been poured into them in a liquid state and left to solidify. Not that they are especially tight, but there is no suggestion to a casual observer of an opening.

Knitted Fiber Hats.

There are stiff satiny straw hats—bright Irish green, coral and lobster pink and soldier and king's blue—also hats made of Hawaiian fiber thread, which is knitted and crocheted. It looks like beaded webbing or silk. These resemble the multicolored knitted beaded bags that have been carried so much.

Try This.

If you have to fasten something at your back and find difficulty in reaching it try putting your elbows on a shelf as high as your chest. Your arms thus supported will reach the hooks.

Contented and Discontented.

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"Well there is one sure thing," remarked the street corner politician, "this back to the land movement will be of benefit to somebody."

"Back to the land, what do you mean?" queried his friend.

"Yep," replied the politician, "the make your own garden and raise your own potatoes and onions."

"But who will be benefited?" asked the friend.

"The seed dealers," said the politician.

"What do you think of the war situation?" asked the friend changing the subject before the politician could get started on the advantages and disadvantages of having your own garden.

"Rather dark," confessed the politician "and it reminds me that what I advocated some time ago should be put in force."

"What's that?" asked the friend.

"Pistol practice for the police force," explained the politician.

"They don't need practice," argued the friend.

"Not unless they would like to hit something when they shoot at it," said the politician.

"Why I thought all policemen were good shots," said the friend.

"Well," replied the politician, "Kingston's policemen are good, but not good shots."

"What do you mean?" asked the friend.

"When some of them have to fire five or six times at a dog before it is killed," said the politician.

"You call that good shooting?" "No," replied the friend.

"There are probably one or two or three men on the force who are what you might call good shots," said the politician.

"Who are they?" asked the friend.

"Well I understand Chief Wood and Sergeant Hanley and Phinney are fair shots, and there might be one or two members of the force who can also shoot," replied the politician.

"Why can't the rest shoot?" asked the friend.

"Never have a chance," explained the politician.

"Is that so?" said the friend.

"Sure it is," said the politician "and what they need is a shooting gallery."

"Where would they have it asked the friend.

"On the third floor of the city hall," replied the politician.

"Seems to me I have heard you say something about that before," said the friend.

"I have," retorted the politician.

"In fact," continued the politician, "I am in favor of turning the entire third floor into a municipal shooting gallery for the benefit of the men of the city."

"What's the idea?" asked the friend.

"In case of war," continued the politician, "the men would have had a chance to learn how to handle a gun, and would not be frightened at the thought that they might accidentally shoot themselves."

"What made this country great in the past," continued the politician, "was the fact that practically every man knew how to handle a gun and could hit what they aimed at."

"That's so," interrupted the friend.

"Now how many men in the city know how to load and discharge a rifle?" asked the politician.

"Not many," said the friend.

"That's the trouble," explained the politician, "and with a municipal shooting gallery on the third floor of the city hall every man would have a chance to learn how to shoot."

"But who would pay for the ammunition?" asked the friend.

"Include it in the tax budget," explained the politician.

"Yes," argued the friend, "but taxes are pretty high now."

"I agree with you that taxes are plenty high enough and should be lower," said the politician, "but the fact still remains that not only should the police force secure pistol practice but the men of the city who are eligible to serve in the army in case of war should be given a chance to learn how to handle a gun."

"All you say is so but look at the increase in taxes," argued the friend.

"Sure and it's easy enough to be a patriot as long as any one don't touch your pocketbook," retorted the politician.

Go-to-Church Sunday.

Sunday, April 1, will be observed in churches of Kingston as Go-to-Church Sunday and the religious work committee of the Y. M. C. A. are co-operating with the ministers of the various churches in making the church services on this particular Sunday of a particularly interesting nature to those who are not in the habit of attending services regularly. Special music by the choir and special sermons by the ministers are being planned and it is expected that the various lodges and other organizations of the city will be invited to attend different churches in a body. The efforts being put forth should result in crowded churches next Sunday and an invitation is extended to everyone to attend church on April 1.

1 cupful of sugar
pinch of salt
2 eggs
Beat eggs, mix sugar and salt to into pie tin lined with pie crust. Bake in moderate oven or bottom rack thirty to thirty five minutes or until set.

To fill with cream, if bulk comes out dry the pie is done. If the custard and coconut separate, it has baked too long. This fills a seven inch pie of regular depth. The crust is made as follows:
1/2 cupful of flour, pinch of salt into bowl, add two level table spoonfuls of sugar, or double any other shortening, rub in lightly with fingers, add enough cold water to hold together. The less water and handling the better the crust will be.
Roll out on floured board. This will make a high edge on the pie.

KENNEDY SENT TWO MEN AFTER AUTOS

Rather Than Disappoint Reno Buyers
Central Garage Owner Made Special Delivery, Bringing Cars From Lansing, Michigan

O. M. Kennedy, proprietor of the Central Garage, and local agent for the Reno automobile has been having a busy season and on account of the large number of orders has been facing a problem of delivery. When the national strike threatened Michigan, Kennedy decided not to disappoint any of his customers so he sent two of his men to Lansing, Michigan, with orders to bring back two Reno cars, one six and one four roadster. A week ago James Davis and Ed
Mower left Kingston for Lansing,
Michigan, and on Thursday afternoon left for Kingston driving the two Reno cars. They arrived at Cleveland on Friday and on Saturday had passed Buffalo. Very bad roads were encountered on the trip, especially in the neighborhood of Erie but the Reno cars ploughed through mud, hub deep and on Monday arrived at the Central on Broadway.

The trip was completed without any difficulty in spite of the bad roads. Daily telegrams were sent to Mr. Kennedy announcing the progress of the cars and the trip was watched with the greatest interest by not only Mr. Kennedy but by other dealers in town. It had been Mr.
Kennedy's intention to have the cars shipped to Buffalo, about the like steamers but as navigation had not opened up the cars were driven all of the way. When the drivers pulled up at the garage on Monday they were given a warm reception by the garage people. The roads at this time of the year are at their worst many deep mud holes being encountered where the mud is axle deep. No attempt at speed was made by the drivers and a record run was not their object, the entire trip being made by easy stages more to demonstrate the dependability of the car and show that you can do it with a Reno.

She Found Liberty in the Sword

Her Name Was Joan of Arc

ACROSS the dark horizon of medieval France there flashed the figure of the greatest woman who ever lived.

From the home of a peasant she rose by her own wondrous works until she stood beside kings.

She loved peace, yet she was the greatest warrior of her age.

In the shadow of oppression she found the light of liberty in the Sword

Joan is dead—killed by the people she loved—but her spirit lives forever.

HIGH SPOTS IN THE DAY'S NEWS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Secretary of State Lansing's declaration that Germany has disregarded the provisions of the Prussian treaty with the United States is expected to pave the way for the intervention in this country in case of war of all Germans who are inimical to the nation's welfare.

While the British surge forward towards the German line, troops further south on the Oise river line are pounding both sides of the German salient between La Fere and Comcy.

The suggestion of military critics that the present German enterprise is a strategic mask for a bigger movement elsewhere is strengthened by the following dispatch from Amsterdam in the Morning Post: That between March 15 and the 15th German troops were transported in Belgium on a larger scale than at any other time since the beginning of the war.

A report from Berne that Field Marshal von Mackensen of the German army has arrived at Constantinople to reorganize the Turkish army has aroused much speculation among military critics. The general opinion was that, if the report was true, the principal task of von Mackensen in Turkey will be to retake Bagdad.

Plans for temporary hospital buildings in addition to the permanent buildings at St. Luke's Hospital in New York are in the making. The arrangements for the new hospital in the event of war and an augmented corps of surgeons is already being enrolled.

From all over the country today the navy department received word of highly stimulated recruiting work. There has been a veritable rush to the colors throughout the entire nation. Nearly all recruiting stations have reported that they have been jammed with applications.

Twenty regiments and five separate battalions of the National Guard will be used for police duty in the Middle West under the direction of Major General Thomas Barry, commander of the Central Department.
